Terence Corrigan is 'n projek bestuurder by die Instituut vir Rasseverhoudings, waar hy spesialiseer in eiendomsreg sowel as grond-, landbou- en mynbeleid. As 'n boorling van KwaZulu-Natal het hy sy weg deur verskeie navorsings instellings gewerk. Hy het ook al as laerskool onderwyser gewerk in Suid-Afrika en Engelse onderig gegee in Taiwan.

Hy het 'n volgehoue bekoring vir geskiedenis en sien homself die naaste moontlik aan 'n vrypraak fundamentalis.

Terence Corrigan is a Project Manager at the Institute of Race Relations where he specialises in work on property rights, as well as land, agriculture and mining policy. As a native of KwaZulu-Natal, he wound his way through several research institutes, as well as a spell of teaching English in Taiwan and as a primary school teacher in South Africa.

He has an abiding fascination with history and considers himself the closest thing to a free speech fundamentalist.
